Reunion Plans

103d INF DIV WW II

2011 Reunion Plans

103d ID WW II Association 2011 Reunion Details and registration form for sign-up by our June 6 deadline follows with the detail reunion schedule on page 3 and the mail-in registration form on page 7. We believe we have an exciting mix of scheduled events sprinkled with unstructured time for your enjoyment of one of America's most interesting and fun cities to spend our 2011 reunion. Just in case you are looking for suggestions concerning your unscheduled time we have a few very exciting suggestions on pages 5 & 6. As you well know one of the key factors in our choice of New Orleans was that it was the location of one of this nation's most extensive and interesting World War II museums. Though it is privately endowed, it is well on target to be the most extensive in the country and thus a place for us to experience at this time. You will note that it is in an expanding mode and very anxious for both your financial support and your WW II artifacts and archives. We have scheduled a full day there on Friday, July 15th, which culminates with dinner and a Stage Door Canteen World War II Era Musical Show which will feature the music and dancing we grew up with. (It still is the Only music I know!) The museum has a sophisticated lunch counter and the first shuttle bus will leave the hotel for the museum at 10 am and keep circulating each hour and then bring us back to the hotel after the show at about 10:00 pm. Those that may be interested in other activities, again I refer you to page 5. The museum is about one mile due south of the hotel. Please note that Zack Sigler will have a greatly expanded 103d ID World War II display in our Hospitality Room at the hotel throughout our reunion and you may desire spending time there. For the very young, I would mention that there is a terrific patio & pool on the first floor of the hotel, in fact, our hospitality room opens onto poolside. Need I say more?

The Reunion begins with a Board of Directors Meeting at 4:00 pm Wednesday 13th of July, at the hotel, followed by a Welcome Social and Dinner at world famous Arnauds' Restaurant. After dinner there will be an open discussion of reunion activities, informal discussion of some of the 103d Association's future activities and goals. Then for those that are interested, a power-point illustrated presentation of Katrina-What Happened to New Orleans? by yours truly who spent 7 weeks in the fall of 2005 helping to clean the place up and took a lot of photographs. One thought as a warning is the fact that while the "Big Easy" is a city of great restaurants so are the prices! Our salvation, however, is the great break we got with our hotel room price at $20/night under the prevailing rate with no parking fee in the middle of the French Quarter. (Our room rate is $99/night-11 thru 19 July -1 to 4 persons)

The Reunion continues Thursday (7/14) with 5+ hour guided bus tour of New Orleans to see all the great places the "Big Easy" is noted for, along with several they wished hadn't happened, and arranged to be split in the middle for lunch on your own in the French Quarter market area, where you may have a few minutes for shopping. This event begins at 10:30 am on Thursday, the 14th, and returns to the hotel-almost, but does end at 4:30 pm. The evening is then available to spend as you see fit, unit dinners, or your favorite New Orleans restaurant. The bus tour price: $22.

All-day Friday, the 15th is the 103d ID WW II Association Day at the National World War II Museum and with the shuttle bus running all day, you may spend all or any part of it at the museum, just as long as you are back at 5:00 pm for the WW II Movie, 6pm dinner, followed by the Glenn Miller Victory Big Band "In the Mood for Dancing" Program. The great songs and dancing of the WW II era have been put together reminiscent of the New York Stage Door Canteen which resulted in a movie of the same name. This event should be the highlight of our reunion and may well become THE highlight of all the 103d Association's Reunions! Prices on Registration Form.

The Reunion Culminates with two events Saturday (16th). You may start with breakfast in the hospitality room and continue with our annual Memorial Service at 8:30 am and business meeting including election of officers and choice of our 2012 reunion site. So from about 10 am to 5 pm will be "free" time for your choice of activity. You may go back to the Museum, do your own research in our Hospitality Room, pick an activity from page 5, or just relax at the hotel poolside. Then at 6pm we head for the dock via a shuttle bus and the riverboat Natchez for a dinner cruise on the Mississippi River, culminating with just relaxing before returning to the hotel by 10 pm. Please refer to the 2011 Reunion Schedule for pricing. We hope to see you there!

Reminder: Have you made your hotel reservations? If not call: 800-747-3279

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Morning Reports & General Orders Currently, we have obtained the Morning Reports of all 103d ID subordinate units and we are now copying same with several people working separately transcribing the individual company M/R's. The period covered is March 1944 thru July 1945 and our goal is to have one-half of the 125 separate unit M/R's (60+) completed by this time next year. At present we have 25 units completed. Once the M/R's have been transcribed, they then may be accessed either chronologically or alphabetically. We are also programmed to obtain all General Orders of the division's units and currently we have about 75% of the unit general orders. These documents do not require additional effort, except to place them in organized files. Zack Sigler and his support staff are making great progress and you will find considerable additional materials available for your review at our reunion in New Orleans. Larry Wayne has recently returned from his trip to the national archives at College Park, MD, where significant progress was made in gathering 103d WW II records which he reports elsewhere herein as to his progress. Of particular note is the response we have witnessed to the website of the 103d ID WWII which Larry established and he has been operating almost 9 months now. The response we have received has surely justified the need for the website and it is very encouraging to satisfy requests for information concerning so many 103d veterans and their families. Larry Wayne has his own report and request relative to our website and I refer you to that piece in this newsletter. (Page 4)

103d ID WW II Association Sponsor of Veteran's WW II Books/Stories Since our 2010 reunion, the 103d Assoc. has undertaken the re-printing of two WW II combat stories. They are both excellent stories which illustrate outstanding examples of how this country put together a very effective army ground force of citizen soldiers that defeated an enemy force that came close to conquering all of Europe. Gus Enyedy's pictorial chronology of an infantry platoon is in the last stage of preparation for sale and distribution at our 2011 reunion in New Orleans. The primary distribution will involve mail orders taken at the reunion for shipment to those ordering same, although a few will be available at the reunion. It is a well written story of a line rifle platoon of citizen infantry soldiers augmented by over 200 pictures supporting the 103d's combat action from Chevry, France (just west of St Die) to Innsbruck, Austria. Two unique elements of Pfc Enyedy's book combine to make this book a must read and have for the WW II buff: 1) Stark proof that a picture IS worth a thousand words; and 2) The amazing find by the author and his use of large-scale detailed German maps bought in Marseille over the counter 6 months after the war ended to "trace" his progress. Combat Diary is 8 1/2 x 11, 200 pages printed 2 sides, some color pages, a heavy soft cover, and cost in the $30 range. We know you "will not be able to put it down"! (It will not be ready until June.)

The Craddock Book was the other book we had been working diligently to put out there as a great contribution to the legacy of the citizen soldier concept of saving our country in WW II. The Craddock book was crucial because it was the only one in the inventory written by a company commander; and much more so because Captain Craddock was one of the very finest in both the opinion of his men and his regimental commander. We have not given up on its non-availability, as the heart of the story is too crucial to our legacy to not resurrect it from extinction. More on this issue after our reunion. In the meantime, we have focused on two great soldier's stories: 1) Pierce Evans' Papa's War - an interesting well-written story by a radio section crew chief of the 103d Signal Co, who after WW II experienced an interesting career in bringing CBS television to us all; and 2) John T. Dorsey Jr. a K/411th infantryman had written his combat action-filled story and his daughter, Frances Dorsey, assembled his work after his death and printed a limited version in a paper book form. Dorsey presents an interesting career with a doctorate degree from the University of Alabama and a political science professor at Vanderbilt University. As you would expect, he writes a great account of his experiences.

103D WORLD WAR II ASSOCIATION WEBSITE UPDATE

<http://www.103didww2assn.org>

Thanks to the untiring effort of many veterans, associates, and family members, we continue to make great progress on populating the website with historical documents, photos, and stories. Since the last NFTCP (Issue 27, February 2011), the Narrative of Operations for HQ, 103d Infantry Division (Cactus) have been posted at http://www.103didww2assn.org/410_regt.htm. Additionally, the Stories section has been expanded to include available electronic books and a reading list of known books about the 103d Infantry Division and books written by veterans of the Cactus Division: <http://www.103didww2assn.org/stories.htm>. Zack Sigler has continued to complete unit Morning Reports. New Morning Reports, searchable database formats, covering entries for units by date and by name that have been added are: HQ, 1st Bn, 409th Infantry, HQ Co, 1st Bn, 409th Infantry, HQ, 3d Bn, 409th Infantry, HQ Co, 3d Bn, 409th Infantry, Companies A, B, C, D, and F 409th Infantry, Companies A, B, E, and I 410th Infantry.

Additionally, a trip was made to the National Archives Records Administration where the Narrative of Operations for the 409th Infantry and 411th Infantry were collected. Those are currently being worked into format for posting on the web.

The goal is to make the 103d Infantry Division World War II Association website the most complete collection of historical information, photos, and stories of any unit that served in World War II. We can do that with your help in sending us any information, stories, photos, documents (enemy or friendly), or directing us to books that cover Division veterans and operations. You can mail anything you want to submit to us to the above address, or if it can be emailed, send it to Larry Wayne at this email address: info@103didww2assn.org. Thanks for all your support and those that answered "The Call To Duty."

GREAT IDEAS FOR ALL IN NEW ORLEANS

Oh Wow! - Have we got a wham bam thank you mam, knees a knockin', shoulders a rockin', toes a twitchin', food is bitchen' kind of week planned for all of you - and that's before you even get out of bed in the morning - and for those that say "that's how every night is.....well lucky you - you get it all in duplicate! Now New Orleans is unlike anywhere else in these United States historic New Orleans is bluesy and offers old world elegance and charm spiced with dashes of sultriness and intrigue.

We can bring you to Gentleman Pirate John Lafitte's Blacksmith Shop Bar, the oldest pub in the country, dating back to 1722, where he is seen occasionally with his pirate hat and some of his old cronies. The building once served as a front for contraband for the Lafitte family. With this given information, one can conclude that this is a hot-spot for paranormal activity due to its old history. Think hearty mates about joining a nighttime walking tour of the French Quarter where you'll visit several haunted sites and hear about the stories featured on The History Channel and The Discovery Channel. $15./Thurs. night. If the nighttime is not your gig, let's set up a daytime tour of the city's oldest outdoor museums, it's historic cemeteries. Often called CITIES OF THE DEAD, noted for their unique, aboveground tombs. At St. Louis Cemetery, founded in 1789, SAINT LOUIS CEMETERY NUMBER 1 there are notable structures including the Locoul's Family tomb and the famed oven wall vaults, the supposed resting place of Voodoo Queen Marie Laveau $12. - Sat. a.m. streetcar accessible.

OK, so paranormal not your potato chip, then why not come walk with us through a living history book, rich in Creole Louisiana's storied past. Visit the Laura Plantation....fascinating and compelling -it was the 2007 WINNER TOP TRAVEL ATTRACTION IN LOUISIANA - Laura is not a typical plantation home. Rather, it is a raised, wooden Creole style home painted yellow rather than an elaborate white columned, balconied mansion out of Gone With the Wind. Laura is also surprisingly small. Despite all this, Laura is unique and extremely interesting because visitors are able (and encouraged) to learn about the plantation's slave life rather than just the house and its owners.

At its largest size, it was approximately 12,000 acres, which included properties amassed over time. In 1804, Duparc, a French naval veteran of the American Revolution, petitioned Thomas Jefferson for property. Duparc received a valuable plot of land and Jefferson secured Duparc's loyalty to the new United States.

This is a classic Creole house, simple on the outside but with real magic within. On display are more than 375 original artifacts, making this the largest collection in the region of items belonging to one plantation family. They cover a 200-year period and include household items like clothes and jewelry. (Of special note: The stories that eventually became the beloved B'r'er Rabbit were first collected here by a folklorist in the 1870s.) Please plan on joining our tour, Sat. 10:a.m./$18., just let me know, or if not, perhaps you would be interested in "On the French Quarter Courtyard" tour. You can enjoy more of the amazing stories of Laura's Louisiana family and creole life in our Le Monde Creole Tour. Visit the website at www.mondecreole.com for more information. Or.....you can purchase her book and sit in the shade with a, oh I don't know, but you'll need two, because you won't be able to put the book down - fascination, anticipation Memories of the Old Plantation Home Laura Locoul Gore compiled an account of nearly 100 years of life on a Louisiana sugar plantation named after her.....or

What do you think about when you hear "New Orleans"? "Hurrah, hurrah, it must be time for Mardi Gras" - well, how would you like to come see where Mardi Gras magic is made. A guided tour of Mardi Gras World Tours includes video presentation, and try on costumes. Tour prop shop and see the world-renowned masters of Carnival sculpture and float-building at work in their shops, weaving spells of wonder, including the 240 ft sea monster "The Leviathan" and don't dare forget your camera! Tour includes King Cake and coffee. $19.95 - Sat.a.m.

Not far from the French Quarter, is the Confederate Museum which was established in 1891 (giving it claim to being the oldest surviving museum in Louisiana; and currently houses the second-largest collection of Confederate memorabilia in the country. Louisiana's Civil War Museum at Confederate Memorial Hall opened so soon after the end of the war that many of the donated items are in excellent condition. Among these are 125 battle flags, 50 Confederate uniforms, guns, swords, photographs, and oil paintings. You'll see personal effects of Confederate Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard and Confederate President Jefferson Davis (including his evening clothes), part of Robert E. Lee's silver camp service, and many portraits of Confederate military and civilian personalities. How's that for getting your interest - $7.00/Sat.

Now for families that have brought their children, we have some super ideas - we have a few tickets for unlimited rides for a full day at Carousel Gardens Amusement Park adjacent to Storyland in City Park. You'll be spinning on the Tilt-A-Whirl, knocking bumper cars, or gliding down the 40-foot fun slide in addition to enjoying more than 10 other timeless amusement-park rides. Sure it's going to be hot in July, but that's why ice cream and slushies are available. Just jump on the streetcar and it takes you to the front entrance.

Can you tell, we love New Orleans - where charm and southern hospitality flourish, even at it's most trumpet-tongued times - New Orleans is way cool - please join in with our scheduled events or just chill out in the lush ambiance. Step back in time and meet with us please - have you made your reservations at the very elegant, historic hotel the CHATEAU LeMOYNE named after Jean-Baptiste LeMoynes founder of New Orleans. Appointed with over-sized guest rooms, original spiral staircases, exposed brick walls and exposed beams. It is one block over from Bourbon St., just minutes from many of New Orleans' World-

Famous restaurants and nightspots (one of which we will be having the opening dinner at, as all are welcome). The Hotel is one block from the Streetcar Line so you will be able to get out and about, but just keep in mind the Hotel's Four Lush, Tropical Courtyards - a Heated Pool, Guest Valet Parking (but comp overnight for guests, how sweet is that) and all the FREE High Speed Internet and all of this at a more economical price than last year - With all this, why not stay an extra day....

Now if you can tear yourself away from all this exquisiteness, after the Wednesday 4:00 p.m. Board Meeting everyone is welcome to be with us at Arnaud's Restaurant

Caroline and the Staff at Arnauuds will provide the perfect combination of food, service, and atmosphere for our group function, from fine dining and soft jazz to award winning creole cuisine. Arnauud's main Dining Room is a beautifully restored turn of the century New Orleans classic and Jackets are suggested for gentlemen. The 103rd, however, has been courtesied with a nominal menu and our very own room, with our private entrance, so therefor my fellow folks, boxers or briefs and flip flops and you're in - tie optional. A special beginning, both visually and palettely. Sign up and we will all enjoy.

Have you realized also, that this newsletter has been reformatted in the Star Wars fashion, with several of the highlights already jawed upon, so now let's travel back in time and start from the beginning.....

On Wednesday, please come to the 103rd's Hospitality Room where you will be able to hug your host and pick up your packet, maybe pickup a new partner, who knows, "anything goes" as Ethel once said. You are going to enjoy and have a fabulous week, so meet and greet, take a load off your feet, and relax, after all, you are in THE BIG EASY.

At 4:00 p.m. is when the big boys and girls have their Board Meeting, but at "sizzling six" everyone meets in the Hospitality Room for complimentary drinks - soft, hard or medium so that at "snazzy seven" we can grab hold whomsoever is next to you and "parade" (beads will be provided) down the street to Arnauuds. After a delish Dinner, your humble host will provide a descriptive, declarative, and demonstrative Desert by acquainting, advising and apprising the audience of the calamity with Katrina. Mr. Rogers left his neighborhood and spent two months in New Orleans overseeing cleanup - you might not want to miss Carmen's powerpoint while your dumplings' digest.....When all is said and done, the night will still be young, and the young'uns can stroll down Bourbon Street where it's all at, and the rest of us will have all we can do to get back to le Chateau and muse re the muster.....

Hope you had a good sleep. Have your Wheaties or milk and muffins, maybe tuck a fiber bar in your....., well, wherever you would usually tuck it, and grab your camera - check for film and batteries and meet in the Hospitable Hospitality Room at 10:00 a.m. and sure, you can hug your host again. We will walk over one block and board the big boys bus - why you ask, can't we be picked up at our Hotel, well because the streets are too narrow in the French Quarter, so we'll just walk one block away where our chariots await. The tour will start with the Ninth Ward and include the Garden District where they built large elegant mansions, and drive past the home of author Anne Rice and follow the path of St. Charles Avenue Streetcar, the oldest continuously operating passenger railway system in the world, pass two prestigious colleges, Tulane University and Loyola University, then over to Bayou St. John as you make your way to the shores of Lake Pontchartrain where you will see the longest bridge over water in the world. We'll pass by the glorious St. Louis Cathedral, the Cabildo and the house where Jefferson Davis died. After a stop for a lunch break and a leg stretch, we'll finish up going by a New Orleans pump station, which keeps the city dry. On to City Park, the zoo, through Lakeview, then downtown and back to the hotel.

Tonight we can relax in our slax, or perhaps peruse the magnanimous work that Zack and Larry are doing with the MR's, which is so very much appreciated by all. Feeling a little frisky? - then tonight's the night for frivolity. But wait, whooo else might be out and about tonight - how many are signing up for the ghost gig - not me - i get the chills just writing about "them" ooooooo Ghost Tours New Orleans $16.

On Friday, after a head count and there are no "extra's", if you know what i mean, this is the biggie - there will be buses to and from le Chateau to the WW11 Museum - The National World War II Museum please plan on all day, part of the day but you won't want to miss the last part of the day - "All that meat and potatoes too"

i just can't wait for Saturday morning and i'll tell you why - we will make an early morning run to Cafe Du Monde and we'll bring back the Beignets!!! These are fried fritters covered with powdered sugar and should i eat them - of course not, but do i - heck yes, and plenty of them -We will meet and greet in that helpful, high-minded, and harmonious Hospitality Room to socialize and set up for today. Those going to Laura Plantation will have signed up and be ready to leave by 9:30, others may be off to the Trolley stop to visit the Carousel Gardens. Anyone signing up for the Confederate Museum? or what about who is going to try on costumes at Mardi Gras World - just be ready for a happy day- but don't turn into a pumpkin be back in time for the yawl (with paddles) the first group will leave the Chateau around 5:30 for the Steamboat Natchez Riverboat -at 6:00 will play the Caliope, you may order a swallow or a swig or two and sit down and sway while we sail away. See you next year!...
